Utilizing Digital Tools to Optimize Employee Recruitment

Thursday, Jan. 24 • 12-1 p.m.

LCBC Church • 2421 Columbia Blvd. (Rt. 11), Bloomsburg

Most employers know that in order to attract talent to their organization, from entry through senior level, that they must have some type of digital recruitment strategy, especially in today's hyper-competitive job market. There are currently more jobs available than people to fill them. What that strategy looks like can vary widely by industry and organization based on several different factors. For many companies, their digital strategy likely consists of placing a job ad on any number of job/employment websites (Indeed, LinkedIn, ZipRecruiter, etc.) and then hoping they get enough qualified and interested candidates to fill the position(s).

PPL Electric Utilities

Did you know there are other digital tools, besides online job boards, that your organization can utilize to improve your recruiting efforts? While these tools won't solve all of an organization's recruiting challenges, they have the potential to significantly improve results, and they don't have to take valuable time or financial resources to implement. Join Jonathan Cummins of incept, a digital marketing and engagement firm, and a Chamber member, as he details some of the digital tools and strategies that organizations can use to further optimize their recruiting efforts and stay competitive – because without enough employees, organizations can't serve their customers. Jonathan is a former healthcare executive, where he guided digital marketing efforts in a very competitive business for more than 10 years before beginning his own digital marketing company, incept.

Cost for this seminar is $15 and includes a lunch from Lucy's Kitchen & Catering.

Breakfast and lunch seminars are sponsored by PPL Electric Utilities.

Present a Lunch Seminar

Americans with Disabilities Act Compliance

Thursday, Feb. 21 • 12-1 p.m.

Hampton Inn Bloomsburg • 255 Papermill Rd., Bloomsburg

The Americans with Disabilities Act was signed into law by President George H.W. Bush in 1990. Still, now nearly 30 years later, there often remain questions about how the various statutes of the law are interpreted and applied and most important, how and what employers must do to comply with the law, as well as its amendments signed into law in 2008.

PPL Electric Utilities

Join Charlie Protasio, business services representative in the Pennsylvania Department of Labor & Industry's office of vocational rehabilitation, as he discusses ADA compliance and attempts to give employers guidance on these issues. Among the topics that will be discussed are:

- What is the ACA?
- What conditions are considered a disability?
- What is a reasonable accommodation?
- What questions can employers ask related to disabilities?

Cost for this seminar is $15 and includes a lunch from Berrigan's Subs.

Breakfast and lunch seminars are sponsored by PPL Electric Utilities.

THE CHAMBER

The Columbia Montour Chamber of Commerce

Join us at our first two 2019 Business After Hours for great food and drink, networking with your fellow area professionals, and an opportunity to learn more about two area educational institutions.

Wednesday, Jan. 30 • 4:30—6:30 p.m.

Columbia-Montour Area Vocational-Technical School

5050 Sweppenheiser Dr., Bloomsburg

The Columbia-Montour Area Vocational-Technical School recently proposed an expansion project that will potentially add space for its 17 current training programs and not only enhance them but potentially add new programming as well. This planned expansion of existing programs has the potential to positively impact not only Columbia and Montour counties, but some surrounding areas as well. Come and learn more about this proposed project and how it will positively affect workforce development in our area,

Columbia-Montour
Area Vocational-Technical School

which is the Chamber's and Chamber Foundation's top long-term priority. Food and drink will be provided and served by students in CMVT's Food Service & Preparation program, which recently had an outstanding presentation as an Angel Sponsor at the 2018 Holiday Open House. A comprehensive tour of the facility and all 17 training programs will be available, and attendees will also be able to learn about the school's academic programs and early college opportunities that currently exist and also have the potential to grow with the proposed expansion.

Thursday, Feb. 28 • 4:30—6:30 p.m.

Bloomsburg University—The Gallery at Greenly Center

50 East Main St., Bloomsburg

Bloomsburg University will once again host its fellow members for a Business After Hours and this year will open up its art gallery at the Greenly Center in downtown Bloomsburg for a late afternoon of food, drink, conversation and the opportunity to learn more about Professional U, which connects students with alumni, employers, and opportunities integrating the academic experience with professional experience in “real world” settings. This date is also the first day of a new exhibition at the gallery titled “The 2019 Student Exhibition Series,” a juried show of three outstanding current students that receive a professional experience in the gallery, the same as any professional visiting artist. Heavy hors d’oeuvres as well as beer, wine and other beverages will be available.

Register for either or both events online, call Phyllis at 570-784-2522 or email pjones@columbiamontourchamber.com.
